Hello,

I'm applying for your EMT opening. To be upfront about my certification: my California EMT card (RC Health Services, 2024) expired less than a year ago, and I am reinstating it now by completing 24 to 36 hours of continuing education or a refresher course, plus a skills verification. I can get the DL-61 ambulance driver certificate and the DL-51 medical exam done promptly.

I also hold AIARE 1 avalanche safety and rescue training, and I've spent years in customer-facing work, including IBM's Customer Support organization and my own consulting practice, where I'm the single point of contact for every client. I live in Emeryville, have fully open availability, and show up for the shifts I'm given.

I noticed the San Jose posting lists the ambulance driver certificates as preferred rather than required. I don't hold the DL-61 or DL-51 yet, but I can complete both promptly, alongside my EMT reinstatement.

Thank you,
Ethan Zaruba-Walker
